'Alleged Car Thief Caught With Goods By Danville Man'

G. W. Aaron Looking for Machine Stolen Saturday Lands Much Wanted Fugitive in Halifax and Real Washington Detective To Boot—Ransome, Man Held Sought in Half a Dozen Cities.

R. I. Ransome, alias "R. I. Henry," alias "Jennings," alleged professional automobile thief, wanted in half a dozen cities and for whom a reward of $500 is outstanding was captured between 11 and 12 o'clock Sunday morning by G. W. Aaron, 25, of this city, who by sheer coincidence overtook the supposed thief in a car stolen from Cabell Grogan on Lower Main Street Saturday night. Aaron, who owns a battery station handled a dangerous situation with unusual skill and daring holding up the thief for half an hour until county officials could reach the scene, and turning another pistol on a police sergeant of Washington, who happened to be passing along the road. The detective was driving a car recently stolen from Washington back to the capital. Aaron knew that such a car was being looked for and refusing to accept the detective's story trained a pistol on him for more than half an hour until help arrived.

Cabell Grogan rendered valuable assistance in causing Ransome's capture. Ransome is the man who is reported to have drugged Sheriff J. E. Wagner, of High Point, near Spray Saturday when that officer was carrying the accused thief back to Winston-Salem to stand trial. There are two reports as to this. One is that the Tarheel officer was administered "knock-out drops." The other is that the officer imbibed too freely of corn liquor and was merely drunk. It remains to be seen which story proves true.

About Aaron, a citizen who did what officers of the law have been trying to do for six months, to apprehend the man suspected of being deep into the auto-stealing game. While they were at the roadside waiting for help to come, Aaron threatening to put a bullet through his head if he made an ugly move. Ransome called his captor over to him, and looking him squarely in the eye, told him that he would have killed him if Aaron had not first "got the drop" on him.

As matters stand today, Ransome is held at Halifax, and will be given a preliminary hearing sometime this week. Not the least surprising part of the capture is the element of chance

Schoolfield Youth Run Over By Car

Marvin Conley, Schoolfield youth, was quite painfully injured yesterday afternoon when he was knocked down and run over by a Ford roadster belonging to and occupied by Mr and Mrs. D. M. Heffner, the latter being at the wheel. The accident occurred about 4:30 o'clock on West Main street just this side of Ballou park. Young Conley, who was taken to Edmunds hospital after the accident, was reported this morning to be resting comfortably, although the seriousness of his injuries had not been determined. There were no bones broken but whether any internal injuries were sustained has not been ascertained.

The machine was going towards Schoolfield at a moderate rate of speed, it was said. Several automobiles were parked on the side of the street, and when Mrs. Heffner was driving past these Conley stepped suddenly from the sidewalk from in front of one of the idle machines and before anything could be done to stop the moving car, the youth had been hit. He was knocked down and at least one of the wheels passed over his body. Mrs. Heffner was very much excited and Mr. Heffner took the wheel and drove her to their home not far away and returned to the scene soon as possible. In the meantime other motorists had picked up the injured youth, who was then unconscious and rushed him to the hospital where he soon regained consciousness.

Lady Astor Sails For Home Tuesday

Lady Nancy Astor will sail from New York for home tomorrow. People who have been following the activities of the Astors since leaving Danville are a good deal puzzled by contradictory reports about their movements. On May 17th one New York newspaper contained an article stating that Lord Astor was sailing home on the Mauritanian, leaving that day. He was quoted as saying that his wife would remain in America for two weeks longer and that he had been compelled to cut short his visit here. It was therefore accepted as true that he had sailed that day, but since then press accounts from Canada have related the movements of "Lord and Lady Astor." Yesterday's New York Times reported the arrival of Lady Astor where she is staying with her sister, Mrs. Langhorne. It is still not clear whether Lord Astor is here or if he sailed on Wednesday. Lady Astor has referred to her Virginia visit as follows:

"Virginia? Oh! It was good to see my old hunting friends and all the people I used to know. And the farmers, they all knew me. They haven't changed. Virginia doesn't change. Real things don't change, you know. It's only fashion which changes. I did enjoy Virginia, and I rode all over the country where I used to ride years ago."

Another Lost Battalion Has Been Heard From

(By the Associated Press) CONSTANTINOPLE, May 22.—Survivors of the Greek lost legion which fled from Samsoun, Asiatic Turkey, last year, are beginning to arrive in the neutral zone near Izmid after six months wandering across Anatolia. Archbishop Metaxakis, the Greek patriarch at Constantinople, has appealed to all Christian churches of the world to persuade the great powers to prevent further persecution of Christians in Asia Minor.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The popular system of daylight saving without changing the clocks used in Washington was blamed yesterday for the overturning of a coffee pot in the home of Senator Daniel S. South Carolina, who complained that in the Senate.

Explaining that he had five children who attend three different schools, the senator said: "It was incident to getting them out of bed for an 8 o'clock session instead of causing the breakfast table catastrophe."

Fellowship Supper of Y. M. B. C. Friday

London, May 21.—Two American women, Mrs. M. L. Shibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, were on board the steamer Egypt, which sank off the island of Usham after collision with the French freight steamer Seme.

Among the missing are two American women, Mrs. M. L. Shibley and Miss V. M. Boyer, missionaries enroute to India. Their home addresses are unknown. It is possible that some of the missing have been picked up by the steamship Cap Iracon, which replied to the distress signals.

PASSENGERS ABOUT TO DIE WHEN LINER IS STRUCK

BREST, France, May 21.—Nearly 100 persons perished last night when the Peninsula and Orient liner steamer Egypt sank off the island of Usham after collision with the French freight steamer Seme.

The Egypt sailed from London for Bremen Friday with 45 passengers and a crew of 240. A roll call on board the Seme after the disaster showed the last but 17 of the passengers and 80 of the crew of the Egypt were missing.

The collision occurred during a gale within 22 miles of the Armen lighthouse. The dinner gong was about to be sounded on board the Egypt, many of the passengers and most of the crew being on deck. Several persons were thrown into the sea on the impact, others jumped and a number went down into the ship which sank in 20 minutes. The Egypt was rammed amidships in the port side.

The Seme, badly damaged, reached Brest today with 12 rescued passengers more than 200 of the crew and the bodies of 20 dead. The captain of the Egypt is among the saved.

When the collision occurred there was a rolling sea, some of those rescue charge that the Indian sailors on board the Egypt took to the life-boats immediately the vessels crashed so that the passengers and crew had to shift for themselves.

Those who jumped into the sea and who could swim scrambled about for bits of wreckage to which they might cling. Many of these were recovered.

The steamer went down rapidly for both the sun and the rising tides directed members of the crew to the Seme in small boats and were soon pursuing the sea, picking up both live and dead.

In some instances the rescue crews his wife.

The Life Story Of Hugo Stinnes, Real Ruler Of Germany

Industrial Giant Is Very Opposite In Character to Wilhelm—Controls Tremendous Resources and Plays Big Role in Domestic Affairs of Country.

BERLIN, May 22.—There is still a foolish impression abroad in America that the great war was fought for the aggrandizement of the House of Hohenzollern and that the German Empire was the Second of Germany. Come here to the immense capital of the country, or visit the Harz Valley and you will find many who will swear the conflict was fought for the enrichment of the House of Stinnes and that Hugo the First, Only and Unique is really the uncrowned King of this so-called republic.

Kings Hugo the First is everything. Wilhelm Hohenzollern was not. Wilhelm was blond and erect. Hugo is black and stooping. Wilhelm was talkative as a hungry parrot. Hugo is silent as the traditional claim. Wilhelm sought the limelight. Hugo feels it. Wilhelm loved to be photographed. Hugo avoids the snap shot. He is as shy as the black panther.

Wilhelm liked to pull up in grand cars. Hugo wears the same old black suit and claps an old "dice-box" on his head. Wilhelm made a bluff at appreciating all the arts. The only picture Hugo likes is the lithograph of a factory with the smoke pouring from all its chimneys.

Today even—with Germany defeated, Lorraine back in French hands and world business in the doldrums—there are few scenes like those witnessed in the Sunnyside home.

Take all the towns around Pilsbury in America and Birmingham in England multiply them by five and you have the Ruhr.

It was amid such surroundings that Hugo Stinnes grew up. The coal and smoke seem to have entered his blood and colored his hair. That's why Lt. Herman Brinckmeier, a noted German publicist, called Stinnes an animated lump of coal and a German newspaper called him an Assyrian king. His black hair, his dead white face, his curved nose make many think him of Jewish blood. But he isn't. Back to Lutheranism. Stinnes has been Evangelical Protestant.

In his early years Stinnes had a career similar to that of many sons

Auto Turns Over Killing Edgar Dodd

Caught Drinking By the Roadside

Yesterday afternoon just as Probation Inspector W. T. Shelton and local police officers R. A. Adams and J. H. Harris, were preparing to make a raid at a point on the Ohio river bank before they reached their destination on the opposite side of the river on the side of the road near Freshwater, apparently without fear of being seen, a whistler from a little boat which was soon to lift the bridge and drink. Both men C. L. Thresher and K. C. Hunter were placed under arrest and charged with drinking in a public place. A charge of violating the Mapp Act was also made against them for having been drunk in their possess in Howesville, Ky., last night.

The officers in charge of the raid and the lawyer for the defense in the trial of the affair the machine was running at a rapid rate of speed when one of the front tires blew out and caused the driver to lose control of the machine which left the road and turned over. Dodd suffered a crushed skull and was dead when taken out of the car which was practically demolished.

Edgar Dodd was instantly killed and three other young men of Pittsylvania county were shaken up and bruised at about midnight Saturday when the Ford car in which they were returning to Holston, Tennessee, was hit by a truck.

They were William Holland, Crowe Holland and Luther Moore and were barreled with attempting to break into a storehouse of Marie Harris Clegg on Oak street, although the place was not actually entered. The negroes having been frightened away by pistol shots fired by another negro who was present in the act. Both sides presented a different story but the weight of the evidence was against the boys. They denied the charge of breaking various articles.

D. T. Craddock was fined $11.50 for driving an automobile with the proper lights.

T. C. Colver, who was fined the same amount for not having lights on his machine.

The unidentified woman who witnessed the tragic accident had heard the train blowing in the distance and realized immediately that a further catastrophe was impending. Instead of running first to the wreck she started up the tracks and the engineer of the Norfolk and Western train seeing the figure waving frantically knew that something was amiss. He applied his brakes and stopped and drew up the train a few yards from the spot where the accident had occurred.

The train crew levered the wreckage to one side after lifting the two bodies away. It was evident that King was dead but Shelton was still breathing. Both were put on the train which continued its run to Koehler where Sheriff B. F. Stultz previously notified the train and had the injured man hastened to the Martinsville hospital, the other body being removed to an undertaking establishment.

Attempt Is Made On Life Of Mayor Of Columbus, Ga.

Children's Day At Mount Vernon

Sunday School Day was observed at Mount Vernon church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with one of the most beautiful children's services ever held in Danville. The service was entirely original, having been prepared for the occasion by Miss Rosa Brimber and Miss H. Olin Thornton. About two hundred children took part in the exercises which made a deep impression on the large audience of adults present.

The program was worked out with the end in view of presenting in very general terms what the church is attempting in the field of religious education. After a brief introduction which consisted of spirited singing by a large Junior choir and a small play of the work being done in the Beginner and Primary groups, representatives of the several departments of the school came forward and presented the work of the church school from their several standpoints.

These addresses were either selections from the Bible or the utterances of great men concerning the place of truth in human experience.

All the pupils had been carefully trained and the exercises went off perfectly. The attempt on the mayor's life was attributed to city officials to unknown persons who recently have addressed threatening letters to Mayor Dimon and City Manager H. Gordon Hinkle.

At the close of the services Frank Talbot reviewed briefly the growth of the Mount Vernon Sunday school and informed the audience that the time had come when further explanation is limited by the greatly over-crowded condition of every department in the school.

"Evidently the bomb was placed on the front porch of my residence by some one who had something against me," said Mayor Dimon tonight. "I was asleep this morning when the explosion occurred and did not get up, not thinking that it had occurred in my own home. I heard the crashing of glass and thought it was displaying windows in nearby stores. Soon, however, I heard many voices of persons in front of my home and went out to investigate."

On April 21, City Manager Hinkle was attacked by three unknown men and struck over the head with a blunt instrument. Letters threatening his life unless he left the city were received by Hinkle previous to the attack. On April 22 Mayor Dimon received an anonymous letter threatening both his life and that of Hinkle unless the latter was discharged.

Convict Negroes of Attempted Storebreaking

Most of the mayor's time was taken up this morning in court in the trial of five negroes on charges of attempted store-breaking at night time. A large number of witnesses for both the Commonwealth and the defense were present. The boys were fined $10 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail, the prison term being suspended. They were William Holland, Crowe Holland and Luther Moore and were barred with attempting to break into a storehouse of Marie Harris Clegg on Oak street, although the place was not actually entered. The negroes having been frightened away by pistol shots fired by another negro who was present in the act. Both sides presented a different story but the weight of the evidence was against the boys. "A month ago I was so weak and crippled up with rheumatism I could hardly answer a fire call but today there's not a man at this station who's in better health than I am," said W. T. Peters, 117 Cabell St., a firefighter at Station No. 3, Lynchburg, Va. "How I managed to hold my job I don't know. Indigestion simply laid the best of me and I couldn't eat enough to keep it down. Then rheumatism set in and I got so bad that I had to give up my job. I've been in bed ever since, except for a few short trips to my doctor. It certainly looked like my days in the service were over."

But it gave a man was made over again by the man. Peters soon ended both my stomach trouble and rheumatism and I can tell you nothing's better than a man who's been laid low but has got back on his feet again. He's gained ten pounds and doesn't feel a bit bad now. I feel better."

Two Cars Stolen; Another Stolen In Washington Found

Two automobiles were stolen from the streets of this city Saturday and last night. Yesterday afternoon a Dodge touring car belonging to Cabell Grogan and being driven at the time by G. W. Aaron, was stolen when it was parked on lower Main street. The machine bore a Va. license tag No. 12445. Saturday night a Ford touring car, belonging to Harry Moorefield, of Blanche, N. C., was stolen from Main street. The machine was a 1918 model.

Neither of the machines had been located at a late hour last night but police officers continued to keep a close watch for the machines.

A detective arrived in Danville Saturday from Washington to identify and take charge of a large Nash car which was taken in charge by the local police several days ago under circumstances which warranted its seizure. The machine is alleged to have been stolen in Washington. The man who had the car made his getaway.

On last Sunday Police Officer F. T. Harris saw a Nash machine in a local garage and the car had the appearance of a long and muddy trip, being almost completely covered in mud. Being received notices here of such a machine being stolen, Harris became suspicious and started an investigation.

The number of the Nash and the number given in the circular did not tally and the matter was dropped for the time being. Several days later another circular came from Washington giving the number of a Nash car which was identical of that on the machine in the garage. Harris told Officer W. T. Kessler of his discovery and the two visited the garage. While Kessler was looking over the machine the "owner" or man who had it in possession came up but on seeing the officer made a hurried getaway and has not been seen since. The machine was left in the garage several days for hair, but the man evidently realized what was best for him and departed from Danville. The police took charge of the car and notified the classification authorities. The detective's highest $50 reward for the machine with him and will leave with the machine probably tomorrow to take it back to the Capital.

DUMB INDIAN'S CARVING MARVELOUS MYSTERY

(From the Minneapolis Journal)

A wonderful bit of wood carving in the museum of the Minneapolis Historical Society, was done by a deaf dumb Chippewa Indian at White Earth Reservation.

Inside a small whiskey bottle are the figures of a boy and a dog standing beside a large wheel. Every bit of the construction is of wood, which is brightly colored.

How the Indian got all his figures through the narrow neck of the bottle and how he got his grouping arranged so true together is a mystery. Even the neck of the bottle is decorated with a big wooden plug on the inside as well as on the outside.

Nobody knows how the Indian got the wood inside the bottle, and the Indian, being dumb, never told.

ENTERTAINMENT

The boys class of W. E. Gardner at Mount Memorial church was host to the girls class of Mrs. J. J. Walker Friday night in the Sunday school room of the church. After the program, refreshments were served.

The reception which followed in the Elks' hall was a delightfully informal and enjoyable one in which practically all the visiting delegates and many members of the home club participated.

Most of those present had donned their evening gowns for the occasion, some attired in street costume. Among the thirty or forty visitors, a large proportion of the members of the local club were present, and many well known ladies and gentlemen, who are not identified with the organization attended and greeted the honor guests of the occasion. A delightful fruit punch was served during the evening. The affair, which was arranged by the local Y. W. C. A., was a thoroughly enjoyable one.

RUTH FAILS TO MAKE SINGLE HIT
IN FIRST GAME

NEW YORK, May 20.—A capacity crowd came out to see George H. Ruth and Bob Meusel, American league sluggers, in action for the first time in 1922 and stayed to see the New York Americans lose one of the freakiest games in years.

The Yankees led by a score of 2 to 1 in the ninth inning, and Jones retired the first two men, but before

New York could put over the last put out St. Louis had scored seven runs and won the game, 8 to 2.

Pinch Hitter Shorten and Collins each singled and Hobbs bounded to first, Pipp threw to Jones for the play at first, and Umpire Chill called the runner out.

The players of both teams and the spectators started to run off the field but when Chill noted that Jones had dropped the throw he reversed the decision and the game was resumed.

Shorten scored the tying run on the play. Gerber singled and Sisler was intentionally walked, but another base on balls to Williams forced in Collins.

Jackson then clinched the game for the Young Women's Christian Association at the Elks' home with the bases full.

This followed a busy day of three sessions, including a symposium of views by well known local educators to the desirability of the girl education, vocational training, and this by a series of three-minute talks in which teaching, insurance, banking, public health, nursing and social service were profitably discussed by speakers well qualified to treat these varied themes.

The late afternoon was taken up with the closing business, including plans for the work to be taken up during the ensuing year, the reports of the various committees and the actions of officers for the ensuing year and finally the selection of delegates to the national convention at Chattanooga.

After Mrs. Forrest's address and the reception, the delegates hurried to their hotel to prepare for departure, and most of them got away on the night trains for Norfolk, Richmond, Lynchburg and points northward of that city and westward. Without exception, it is believed, the delegates were pleased with their reception and entertainment here and particularly with the admirable and well carried out program arranged by the local committee of arrangements.

The officers elected follow:

Mrs. J. K. Bowman, Richmond, (reelected), first vice president, Mrs. A. B. Wau, Norfolk, second vice president, Miss Mary McLean, Alexandria, recording secretary, Miss Mabel Garrison, Roanoke, corresponding secretary, Miss Emily Rowall, Richmond, treasurer, Miss Salie Haskins, Danville.

The business and professional women were guests of the Y. W. C. A. at luncheon yesterday at 1 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. rooms. A delightful salad course was followed by ice cream, served by charming young ladies of the "Y. W." but the real piece de resistance of the afternoon was the speaking program which included the best talent of the business women as well as some local talent that is known to be above the average. A number of students of Averett College were guests of the Y. W. C. A. at luncheon.

Miss Dorothy Hatcher was the first speaker and she also acted as a sort of impromptu chairman of the assembly. She outlined in characteristic vein the attitude of the women of the federation toward girls of preparatory and high schools. She stated that business women everywhere were beginning to realize that a more thorough academic and cultural training would mean much to the women in business and that it was her advice to young girls that they stay in school as long as possible.

Grace H. Dodge Day

The following program will be rendered Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the association rooms, the purpose of which shall be to honor Miss Dodge's life and work to the Y. W. C. A. and to recall the spirit of service in which she lived her life. It is fitting that the members of the Young Women's Christian Association who have no knowledge of Grace Dodge and the service she gave in laying the broad foundation for the National Young Women's Christian Association should get the inspiration of her spirit which still lives with us.

Vernon Hill, which is eight miles this side of Houston, Aaron asked some boys if they had seen anything of a Dodge roadster, and they replied that they had seen such a machine a short while before, going towards Houston. Aaron, who was driving, hastened his speed and had but covered a few miles when he saw a Dodge car in front of him. He readily recognized the machine as his by the number of the license tag in the rear.

Aaron had prepared himself for anything that might happen, and brought with him a .32-calibre revolver and a number of cartridges. Grogan was told to load the gun, and after doing so, handed it to Aaron, explaining that his eye-sight was bad. Aaron took the weapon in his right hand, using the left to steer the machine. When the Ford came almost parallel with the stolen roadster, Aaron demanded "halt" of the driver, who at first declined to do so. Aaron says he then fired a shot at the man, and he stopped. He then commanded him to throw up his hands, which he did momentarily, but allowed them to drop again. Thinking the man might be a desperate automobilist, Aaron fired once more. Directly at the head of the driver, but the bullet missed its mark. When asked whether he intended to actually hit Ransome, Aaron replied that it mattered little to him. He says that he pointed the gun directly at the man and fired twice. He says at the time it did not make any difference to him whether the ball found its mark or not.

Ransome, on realizing his danger, became very nervous and immediately threw up both hands as was demanded of him, and began to plead of Aaron not to kill him. "I've got your car," Ransome is reported to have repeated several times. Aaron said he took no chances with the man whom he did not know. On getting out of his machine and approaching Ransome while he was still sitting at the steering wheel, Aaron says he threw the gun point-blank at his face and told him, "I'm tempted to blow your brains out," or words to that effect.

Ransome renewed his plea for his life, and Aaron stepped back a foot or two and told the man that as long as he kept his hands up and showed no tendency to start trouble he would not pull the trigger but shoot'd to make the shotgun blow out of the way. He would tell him whereupon Ransome assured him that he would make no such move. Aaron then ordered Grogan to search Ransome. The search revealed a .45 calibre Colt automatic.

"Will this gun shoot?" inquired Aaron of Ransome. "Yes" was the immediate reply. To make himself sure that it would Aaron took the weapon after giving his own gun to Grogan and ordering him to hold it on Ransome. Aaron fired the automatic he took from Ransome several times to see if it would shoot. Seeing that he could depend on the gun, Aaron pointed it at Ransome and told him if he made a false move he would kill him with his own gun. Aaron says he felt safer after obtaining the automatic as the gun he carried was none too new and he wanted to make sure of a gun firing in a situation like that.

Probably fifteen minutes elapsed when Aaron caught sight of a large Nash car coming in the same direction having learned that such a car had been stolen in Washington and was in this section. Aaron says he concluded that this was also a stolen machine driven by the thief who was trying to make his getaway. Aaron instructed Grogan to "cover" Ransome with the revolver. Just as the Nash machine slowed down Aaron threw the automatic on the driver and ordered him to halt and throw up his hands. The demand was complied with. The driver then represented himself as a detective of Washington in charge of the Nash taking it back to the Capital. Still making no chance of any possible trouble Aaron says he would not believe the man's story and forced him to keep his hands up while Grogan was watching the other man. The man in the Nash also became excited at the way Aaron was handling the situation and the threats he was making should any false move be made by either of the men. Aaron told the driver of the Nash if he lowered his hands he would blow his brains out. The man tried to explain who he was and what he was doing but although Aaron listened he refused to take his word but merely kept him "covered" with the automatic. Aaron says he was wary of depending on Grogan to take care of Ransome because of his bad eyesight, and that he walked backward a few steps to be in a position to watch both men. Every few minutes he would punch Grogan in the side with his elbow and remind him to watch his step.

The man driving the Nash was in reality J. M. Allegood, the Washington detective sergeant who was returning to that city with the car which was found here by local officers. He told Aaron that he thought it ridiculous that he should be held up in the like manner and pleaded with him to listen to his story as the hold-up was over in Washington would show him up in a bad light.

In the meantime a Ford touring car drove into view and was soon beside the two other machines. In the car were H. B. and O. H. Henderson brothers. Aaron asked the two youths to go to Houston eight miles away as fast as they could and bring an officer to the scene.

Standing there in the road Aaron and Grogan held the two men at the point of their guns for more than half an hour until the Henderson boys returned with Deputy Sheriff E. B. Holt of Houston. In the meantime while the boys were going after the officers the detective evidently became tired of holding his hands in an upright position and when he showed a tendency to lower them, Aaron warned him not to do so and made him grasp a support at the top of the car in order that he would not become so tired. By this time several automobiles had stopped at the scene and the shooting had attracted the attention of others. One man was asked to search the detective while Aaron held the gun on him, trusting the weapon in his hands but his own. A search of the detective revealed a large automatic pistol and he was relieved of this. Resting assured that neither of the men had any weapon, Aaron says he permitted them to lower their hands but was careful to watch their movements.

It was over half an hour that the Henderson boys returned to the scene, bringing with them a deputy who took charge of Ransome and the detective. After closely questioning the detective the latter proved to the officer by his credentials and other effects that he was a detective and after some little time was allowed to continue his journey. The card he handed Aaron during the hold-up gave the name of F. M. Allegood, detective sergeant of the auto squad of Washington, D. C.

The officer had come to Danville after word had been sent to Washington that a Nash machine, which had been stolen in that place had been recovered here. He came here, identified the machine as the stolen one and paid the reward of $50 offered for its return to the police. An additional $50 was offered for the capture of the thief but he was not caught having abandoned the machine at a local garage after he had seen police officers looking the car over. He evidently concluded that it was the wisest plan to give up the machine and leave the section.

The Dodge roadster, belonging to Grogan, but in charge of Aaron, who had taken it to sell for Grogan was stolen from the street on lower Main street Saturday night. Aaron operates an automobile storage battery and

Klan Candidate Leads In Oregon

PORLTAND, Ore., May 21.—Apparently the Ku Klux Klan candidate, State Senator Charles Hall, was nominated by the Republicans for Governor in yesterday's State-wide primary over Governor Ben Olcott.

Never before in Oregon's history has religion entered so strongly into a political campaign. The Ku Klux Klan and the Federated Patriotic Societies, an anti-aliens organization, lined up for Hall, while Governor Wolcott denounced the Klan in the closing days of the canvas.

The race between Hall and Olcott proved close. In scattering returns from 25 to 35 counties of the State Hall had 16,396 votes and Olcott 16,050. The nomination is equivalent to election in Oregon under normal conditions.

Ralph E. Williams seems to have been re-elected to the Republican National Committee. He was opposed by O. W. Pritchard, whom many supported as being progressive, as contrasted with Williams, who is called a stand-patter.

All three Republican Representatives in Congress are seeking renomination and all are leading in their respective districts. The closest race is that of Representative C. W. McArthur, a foe of the bonus. Latest returns give him 7,128 votes to 6,703 to Frank Korell, an ex-service man.

"PICKLED" NEWSPRINT THAT WILL DEFY TIME NOW USED IN LIBRARY

NEW YORK, May 21.—How to preserve newspapers so they can be preserved indefinitely in public libraries is a problem that apparently has been solved, the American Paper and Pulp Association announced yesterday.

Eight years of experimenting participated in by three New York newspapers at a cost of $5,000 a year each, under the supervision of the New York Public Library, has taught librarians how to preserve for posterity news-paper files.

Each newspaper sheet is mounted between two sheets of thin Japanese tissue, shutting the air from the original sheets, reducing its legibility but slightly and strengthening the page. Bound volumes of the mounted pages are now in constant daily use, free from wear and tear.

In the experiments silk was first used, but the Japanese tissue was found the best, as it hermetically seals the newspaper pages from the air.

Virginia Colleges Furnish Nearly All Teachers In State

RICHMOND, Va., May 21.—Of the twelve regular men's or mixed colleges and universities in the Old Dominion, the University of Richmond leads the list in respect to furnishing teachers for the present session of Virginia high schools, according to reports made public in the report from the State Department of Education.

University of Richmond has furnished 101 members of the high school faculties of the state, with University of Virginia and William and Mary coming in the order named with 94 and 85 respectively.

Farmville Normal tops the list, making teacher training its primary purpose, while Randolph-Macon Woman's College has the second largest number teaching. Farmville's number is 166 and Randolph-Macon's total is 158.

Huge Tiger Shark Picked Up By Ship

NEW YORK, May 21.—Wireless reports today from the steamship American Legion speeding North from South America said she had picked up one of the largest tiger sharks ever seen and carried it for several hours on her bow.

Captain Zearfoss who sent the message, said the ship struck the fish squarely in the middle and that the forward rush of the vessel held it on the bow until it could be measured and photographed. The shark was 30 feet long.

William M. Hayden

Died Early Today

The unexpected death took place this morning of William M. Hayden at his home 633 Jefferson street. Mr. Hayden had not been ill, although owing to his advanced age, 86, he was feeble. Last night he attended the evening service at Lee street church. At about half past five o'clock this morning he was seized, apparently with a heart attack and died in a few minutes. He was a native of Patrick County and had lived in Danville about three years, moving here after the death of his wife. He leaves three sons: W. E. Hayden, Danville; J. M. Hayden, Hillsboro, N. C., and A. J. Hayden of Kentucky.

The body is being taken to Stuart for interment tomorrow afternoon.

Tennessee Lady Says She Was Greatly Relieved by Taking Cardui and Recommended It to Daughter

Fountain City, Tenn.—Mrs. Jett Weaver, wife of a substantial, well-to-do farmer on Route 2, this place, says she has known of Cardui for many years. She gave the following statement of her experience with this well-known, purely vegetable tonic for women.

I was in a run-down weakling condition. I was thin, with poor appetite, and in every way worn out. Could hardly go; would be miserable.

"Many mornings I sat down in a chair to make my bread.

"I would get discouraged, and wonder what my troubles were, and where they would end.

"I had known of Cardui for years, and I began using it as a last resort. I took one bottle and used it. Continued using it until I had used three or four bottles.

"The result was marvelous. I felt altogether different—in fact, felt so much relieved, that when my daughter wrote me she wasn't well, I wrote her to go to the store and get some Cardui.

"She did, and it certainly benefited her.

"Since then, I have tried to scatter the good news that would help others."

"My present health is very good."

"If you suffer as many women do, and need a tonic, try Cardui. Thousands of women who have suffered have written that Cardui helped them.

Petersburg May Get In Virginia League

RICHMOND, Va., May 21.—Petersburg has made application for a franchise in the Virginia state league, it became known here tonight. Business men of the Cockade city are understood to be after the franchise of one of the teams in the Virginia circuit said to be in financial straits whose owner, it is said, will be in Petersburg to go over the matter tomorrow.

Petersburg was represented in the Virginia league a part of the season of 1921 or until the strands of the Petersburg park were destroyed by fire. After ineffectual attempts to find another suitable ground, the team was transferred to Tarboro, N. C., which was dropped from the circuit with the reorganization of 1922.

Bishops Will Be Consecrated

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 20—(Associated Press)—The nineteenth general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, here virtually passed into history tonight when the body wound up the important features of its business program and recessed until tomorrow at which time the five newly elected bishops will be consecrated and memorial services will be held for deceased bishops.

A few odds and ends of business went over and they will be disposed of Monday morning, the time set for formal adjournment of the conference.

At today's sessions the conference refused to adopt the name of the church in the apostolic creed from "the holy catholic church" to the church of God" and voted against merging five of the church publications now printed at Nashville, under a consolidated management. The conference voted to use a surplus of approximately $1,500,000 from its European war work fund to build churches at educational centers.

The consecration ceremonies for new bishops and the memorial for deceased bishops will be held tomorrow forenoon at one of the local churches.

DAMAGES GIVEN AFTER 15 YEARS

ORLANDO, Fla., May 20—After a fifteen year fight in the courts of Florida, Miss Helen Hunt, of Jacksonville, today was awarded $25,000 damages by a jury in the seventeenth judicial circuit court, against Dr. L. H. Huley and Stetson University. Miss Hunt sued Dr. Huley and the University for damages in connection with her admission to that institution in 1907 when she was seventeen years old. She had previously brought suit for slander against Dr. Huley in Volusia County in 1911 and was given a verdict of $15,000, which was set aside by the State supreme court.

Attorneys for the defense announced tonight that a motion will be made next week for a new trial.

WOMAN SLEW TAYLOR TO PROTECT GIRL RELATIVE IS NEW THEORY

Which Holds Key to Taylor Mystery?

SOLDIER • SERVANT OR WOMAN?

ONE IS THAT HE WAS SLAIN BY A WOMAN OUT FOR REVENGE, ANOTHER THAT HIS FORMER VALET, SANDS, CAN THROW LIGHT ON THE CRIME; A THIRD, ANNOUNCED FOR THE FIRST TIME, THAT HE WAS KILLED BY A WOMAN WHO MISINTERPRETED HIS FRIENDSHIP FOR A GIRL RELATIVE.

Murdered Movie Man and Three Friends

SOMEONE IS GOING TO TALK

(By Detective Sergt. Edgar King, District Attorney's Office, Los Angeles)

I am convinced that more than one person has guilty knowledge of the Taylor murder, and that this fact will eventually land the murderer or murderers.

The case has settled down into the long vigil between the law's officers and the slayer. Elapsed time in a case of this nature doesn't lessen the chances of success. Some day someone's going to drop a word, a hint.

Persons from all over the world are still writing us hundreds of letters proffering suggestions and "solutions"—indicating the flagging interest in the mystery. When a hint is dropped here it's likely to be many listeners who will immediately flash it to us. Taylor will be avenged.

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

LOS ANGELES, May 20—A dozen detectives from the city police and district attorney's office are still at work on the William D. Taylor murder mystery.

Two men are expected to solve the killing of the $2,000-a-week movie director shot Feb. 1 in his bachelor room in Hollywood.

Heretofore envy, suspicion and dissension have hampered the investigation.

One by one, a score of hot trials have cooled. None of the 25 persons questioned has suggested definitely the key to the case. Half a dozen persons are still under surveillance. No trace of Edward Sands, Taylor's missing former valet, waited for interrogation has been found.

Three Theories of Crime

Taylor has finally narrowed to three.

FIRST. That Taylor was killed by an unidentified soldier of his overseas command because of some wartime altercation. Taylor was a captain in the Canadian forces.

SECOND, that Sands, accused of trying to kidnap him, is his employer and by some means has caused him to be killed to keep him from revealing the mystery.

All have circumstantial weight asserted by the officers who respectively

Gossip of Week At State Capital

RICHMOND, Va., May 20—With the date sixty days away for the primary election to name a United States senator and candidates for Congress, to be elected in the November election, there are no signs that the campaign is on. The candidates are doing the still hunt, having little conferences, organizing the women and sending out great quantities of literature, personal letter and the like. But they are not having any meetings and making speeches. And the voters are taking less interest than has been the case in any preceding election so near at hand. As a matter of fact all the candidates to be voted for have not paid their fee, and the time is growing short for this. Possibly the slowness and dullness of the campaign can be found in the fact that in only three districts are there contestants—only two in which there are two seeking to win the nomination in the primary. These are the Second and the Sixth. All the members of Congress at this time are seeking to succeed themselves, that is, of course, with reference to the Democrats. Congressman Joseph T. Davis of Norfolk is being opposed by Joseph D. Hunt of Norfolk, for the nomination with the chances that a hot campaign of about four weeks will open about June 15. In the Sixth district Congressman James P. Wren is being opposed by Judge F. A. Woodrum, who is being sponsored by the labor people and other elements of the Democratic Party.

Reports from the Ninth district—that over which Congressman Semp has held sway for years—are that George C. Perry of Tazewell is certain to be elected by the Democrats. He was nominated several weeks ago.

Pagant Begins Monday.

The Virginia Historical Pagant will open Monday and continue for a week. The affair has been under way for more than a year and it has been advertised as no summer affair in Virginia's history. Expectation is that Richmond will be packed with visitors from every part of the country, for the pagant will portray the events and incidents of the early history of the Old Dominion. Scientific clubs have arranged to participate and there was a number of organizations which will present different scenes. There will perhaps be twenty military commands here, along with the Confederate veterans, the Spanish veterans and the members of the American Legion. Arrangements were made early for about one hundred allegorical floats for the series of parades. Many of the business places have been decorated with flags and bunting for the occasion and excursions are coming from all over the South, with several from the cities of the North.

Highwaymen Sent Up.

More than a month ago five negro men held up a car here and robbed the conductor of the receipts of the day. The master was reported to the police and all five of them were captured. The conductor was badly used up by the thieves and fought back. He was able to give such a description that the detectives ran down the five men and then one of them confessed. Two were given eighteen years, two fifteen years and the fifth drew ten years for his part in the affair.

Will Investigate Lawyers

Allegations have been made to the Bar Association of Richmond of improper conduct on the part of two members of the legal profession in Richmond. The exact nature of the offenses suggested against them has not been made public, but they are not sustained as to lead to the conclusion that penalties will be severe. Both are young men and are well known. If the allegations made will be supported by evidence there appears to be no question that they will be disbarred. One of the cases will come to the courts in the next few days as a result of warrants issued for trespass by officers of the law in collecting evidence.

Strawberries Are Profitable

Reports from Accomac county are that 218 cars of strawberries have been shipped in three days from Only Accomac county, and that the shipments will average about fifty cars a day for the next ten days. The berries brought about $1,000 a car, so that making allowance for reduction in price from now to the end of the season the crop in that one county is expected to reach nearly $600,000. In a few days the shipper of new potatoes from that part of Virginia will start, that being the potato section of Virginia and from Once alone the year's shipments will reach a valuation of $15,000,000 if the crop approaches the average. The shipments from Accomac are handled through the Eastern Shore Produce Exchange.

Penitentiary for Hines

Walter D. Hines, of South Richmond, convicted of the killing of a policeman nearly a year ago while the officer was engaged in a search for bootleggers, has been sentenced by Judge Ernest H. Wells to serve fifteen years in the penitentiary. The judge denied the man a new trial, the plea being that another man in that part of the city, in delirium from fever, confessed to the killing. Judge Wells held that this alleged confession was not evidence and could not be so considered. Counsel for Hines will take the case up to the Supreme Court, and he will have an appeal as a matter of right. It does not follow, however, that the appeal means a new trial.

Shriners to Make Pilgrimage

Acca Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will make several pilgrimages in the next few weeks, one of them to Farmville the latter part of this month. Soon thereafter the Shriners will make a visit to Leesburg, Loudoun county, where a great class of candidates will receive the degrees. This will be the first trip that Acca Temple of Shriner have paid to that part of Virginia, but it has a membership of nearly a thousand there. The party will leave here in a private train of Pullmans and will return the same night, leaving Leesburg about midnight and reaches home early in the morning. The Leesburg people are preparing to give the Shriners a great welcome. The band of the patrol and all the paraphernalia for full ceremonial will be taken on the trip.

Federal Offices Close

For several months there have been in operation here five labor departments of the federal department, the checking up of the manufacturing establishments in which children are employed being the purpose. These departments or branches were under the supervision of John E. Cipolini. Following the decision of the United States Supreme Court these branches were closed in short order and the forced returned to Washington. The federal government was seeking to collect a tax of 10 per cent on the net profits of the establishments that employed child labor, but the law was held unconstitutional.

Retires from Ministry.

The Rev. Dr. Frank T. McFadden, for nineteen years pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, has announced that he will retire from that charge this month. Dr. McFadden is one of the best known and ablest ministers of his denomination. He has been made president of the Legion Men's Training School for the Presbyterians, and will take up that work and devote his entire time to that. Dr. McFadden has a keen interest in public affairs. He has been president of the Rotary Club at one time and was master of two Masonic lodges here, is in constant demand for speeches and addresses on all sorts of subjects and is one of the broadest men to be found.

Moonshiners Burn Buildings

Letters have been received here telling of the burning of several houses in Page county by the moonshiners who are engaged in the pastime of bootlegging, and who have reacted to this means to suppress those who are opposed to their activities. The letter came to officers of the State, to which reply is made that the county officers of Page are charged with the duty of finding and punishing persons who engage in that work. One woman's widow, who has three sons in France, appears to be the object of the hatred of the bootlegging fraternity and the moonshiners, and the home she rents has been provided with the information to the owner to have her ousted. It is expected that the letter will be sent to the judge of the county and to the sheriff, for them to take action to protect the residents. The letter says that the men in the liquor business do not hesitate to go to court and to swear to anything that will prevent the prosecution of one of their number.

PINCHOT TO PUT ROOSEVELT IDEALS INTO EFFECT IN PENNSYLVANIA

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY

(Copyright, 1922, by NEA Service)
MILFORD, Pa., May 22.—The spirit of Theodore Roosevelt lives again. His disciple, Gifford Pinchot, who started the country by upsetting the rock-ribbed boss system of Pennsylvania and winning the Republican nomination for governor, is already working on a program of progressive government that unanimously had its inspiration 10 years ago in Roosevelt.

"One of the most delightful things," Pinchot said, "was the practically unanimous support given me by the people who were behind T. R. in 1912."

Pinchot, who came to "the Towers," his Pike county home, to rest after the campaign, told me of his plans.

A most powerful factor in the campaign, Pinchot said, was that the appeal for better government was made directly to the individual man and woman in all parts of the state. The result is proof that it was heard.

This is an old Roosevelt doctrine.

Pinchot's first thought in mapping out his program is the welding together of the fragments of the split Republican party. His most spectacular act was sending word to his defeated opponent, Attorney General George W. Alter, inviting him to "the Towers" to consult on plans for the fall campaign. Everybody is climbing on the Pinchot bandwagon and it is believed he will have little difficulty in defeating the Democratic candidate.

"Mine is not going to be a one-man government," Pinchot said. "The fellow who plays a lone hand, under such circumstances as exist in this state, is bound to fall."

"I want to be in touch with the best thought in the state on all questions. I am going to spend the summer here working on that program. I've won, but I haven't got the swelled head. I'm longing to get the idea that I know it all. I want other fellows to help me."

Pinchot said very decidedly that he was not grooming himself for the presidency in spite of the nation-wide talk of such an eventuality.

"When a man gets the presidential bee buzzing in his bonnet it's all off," he said. "I've seen too many good governors ruined that way. I have no intention to be president. The government will keep me busy."

High up on the pin not program is getting the state finances straight.

adjustments, but has not reached a decision. The president is said to have been told that legal requirements laid down the commission will not in the opinion of some of its members, allow material reductions to be enforced by regulatory orders. Legally, the commission must give "a reasonable return" on value of their capital in setting rates.

The railroads have persistently argued that operating costs partially controlled by another government body, the Railroad Labor Board, which rates must be brought down before further railroad rates can be materially lowered. The president has been reported as feeling that executives might, and possibly voluntary concerted effort by railroads might be effective in the situation.

HOLD HIGH SCHOOL CLASS NIGHT EXERCISES

PETERSBURG, Va., May 20.—The class night exercises of the June class were held in the high school auditorium tonight. The "Missing annual" was placed on sale for the first time.

The exercises were divided into two parts, the exercises proper and the class play. The scene of the former was that of a country club if a future reunion of the class five years hence. Henry Purmer read the old club law. Then the new club law, later known as the code of Elizabeth Nicholson. The songs rendered were songs which was composed by Frances Meade.

John Schindler had drawn up the last will and testament. Little Miss Mary B. Lambacher recited "The Turtle" by Vacher Lansdale.

The play "Who Kissed Barbara" was given, and proved to be a delicious one of production involving many humorous situations. The cast which had been carefully selected by Professor H. A. Miller, was as follows: Francis McLean, John Kenyon, Blake Annie Townsend, Henry Plummer, Paul Blake, Ross, Walhall, Horace Gregory, Gaines Goodman.

TAKES REFUGE IN BARN

MOOSUP, Conn., May 20.—State police and local officers late tonight were trying to dislodge Edward Spalding from a barn in which he had taken refuge after shooting six persons. One man was seriously wounded.

PROSPERITY IN CAPITAL SEEN

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Harding's conference on unemployment reports that during the month just past the ratio between job and job hunters has decreased, there being 160 seekers for every 100 jobs as compared with 226 unemployed for every opportunity at the beginning of the year. In January 14 per cent of unemployed could find work, whereas now 12 per cent find places. With the jobless estimated at 3,500,000, the figure would put the number of men seeking work at an army of 630,000 men.

Further evidence of returning prosperity is seen at the Capital in the growing numbers of travelers who ask for passports for foreign journeys. So great is the rush for the little green-covered evidence of American citizenship that almost 20,000 were issued in April and the State Department, which has jurisdiction over granting them, warns would-be travelers to apply early if they would receive their passports in time.

Department of Labor statistics indicate that living costs are steadily decreasing, a further evidence of real prosperity. The fall in the costs of living in principal cities between June, 1920, and March, 1922, the department estimated, was greatest in Detroit, where it amounted to 26 per cent. In New York the decrease was 22.5 per cent, in the same period, and in Chicago 21 per cent. The estimate for Los Angeles, where it was 14.5 per cent, compares with the Commerce Commission's official optimist, said in an address before the Florida bankers' convention: "The business outlook for the whole country is brighter and more encouraging than it has been for the past two years. We are well rid of business and industrial froth."

SEC. HOOVER TO PRESIDE AT MEET

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—Secretary Hoover will preside here at the formal organizing meeting, June 19-20, of the American Construction Council, of which Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, former assistant secretary of the navy, will accept the presidency. An equal vote, it is announced, will be given to each branch to each of the following groups: architect, engineers, construction labor, general contractors, sub-contractors, materials, and equipment dealers, bond, insurance, and real estate interests, construction departments of public utilities, and the construction departments of federal, state and municipal governments.

For the first time in history, American industrial development, shipbuilding, executive, led by the American Institute of Architects and Noble Foster Higgins of the executive board of the Associated General Contractors of America, has united in its elements—manufacturers, labor and the professional branches—in a great effort to raise the standards and efficiency of the industry and improve the service which it renders the public. The nearest precedent to that furnished by the selection of Will H. Hayes as arbiter of the motion picture industry, but the American Construction Council, on which the organization details are now being completed, goes much further.

When considered from the standpoint of the yearly volume and money involved, the construction industry comes second only to agriculture and is the first of all the industries when expressed in terms of the labor.

"Yet in this mighty industry each element has, with rare exceptions, acted by itself, looking after its own interest, neglectful generally of the rights of the public.

With no organizers have a large program of work mapped out, effort will be concentrated at the start on a few of the more outstanding problems.

A code of ethics that will be universal accepted in the industry will be established.

"There is a shortage of building mechanics, and the labor organizations need help in establishing apprenticeship system."

Mornings, afternoons and evenings are crowded with interesting things to do. Don't let anything keep you away from Richmond during the week of May 22-28.

The Pageant Drama is a Series of Plays Based on Virginia's History

Out under the stars the Pageant Drama—the play that has been written from Virginia's History—will be presented each and every night of Pageant Week. See the History of Virginia—dramatized. See John Smith and Pocahontas. See Bacon's Rebellion. See Patrick Henry and hear his speech. See the stirring scenes of the Revolution. See Lee during the Confederate Period. See the World War spectacle.

No plot ever developed in the brain of man can equal the History of Virginia for thrilling moments—for tragedy, pathos and humor.

Historical Street Processions Will Interest Thousands Daily

Every day of Pageant Week Historical Processions will be seen in the streets of Richmond. Beautiful floral floats and spectacular displays visualizing certain moments in Virginia's History have been prepared.

Floats have been entered in these processions from all over the State. Many sections have entered displays that have no equal for interest, unusual arrangement and beauty.

These Processions are a very important and interesting part of the great week's celebration.

Four Costume Balls

Among the most beautiful events in connection with the Pageant will be the spectacular costume balls in which will be gathered the chivalry and beauty of the State—on Tuesday and three succeeding nights.

Old Virginia Tournament

On Friday afternoon of Pageant Week, at 3 o'clock, an Old Virginia Tournament will be held. No single feature of the Virginia Pageant holds more interest than this interesting contest.

DO WE NEED POLICEWOMEN?

The suggestion which has recently been made that Danville employ one or more policewomen is an interesting one, although just at present it fails to find favor in quarters which might be expected to gauge most accurately the city's needs. The question has been raised as result of the recent visit here of Louis Brownlow, city manager of Petersburg, who spoke in glowing terms of the achievement of the women officers employed in the Cockade City. Petersburg has two and claims to be the first town in the State to use policewomen. According to Mr. Brownlow the experiment has been a great success.

It remains a question, however, if Danville is really prepared to try the experiment or if there exists a real need for the policewomen. As a matter of fact this city has two women probation officers, both of them with the same powers which are vested in a policeman, that is to say they have the right to make arrests, although they are not called upon to patrol beats or to fulfill the accepted functions of a police officer. Yet they are performing the work that Mr. Brownlow said the Petersburg women policemen are doing, that is to say controlling certain vicious conditions which involve women chiefly and which can be more effectively handled by woman than by man. One can readily see that in larger cities where women criminals abound that highly specialized police departments with women on the force are necessary. There is nothing in the local situation which would suggest the necessity of this step at the present time when two probation officers can readily handle this quite small percentage of lawlessness. One thing is quite certain, however, and that is that before women can be added to the department certain reforms will have to be made at the courthouse in the way of quarters for the women police officers. There seems to be no crying need for the innovation just now.

HONOLULU, May 22.—The use of chalmoogra oil derivatives in combat leprosy has proved effective thus far, but has not been definitely established as sure curative in all cases. Dr. H. E. "The effect of chalmoogra oil is not all that we desire, but are making improvements," he said. Experiments are being conducted with the hope of discovering the exact formula and methods that will make it an absolute cure.

Scoop's Column

DRAKES BRANCH, May 22.—(Grapevine Wireless)—First day of the first half of the week, fair and warmer. There is an old belief of Adam knew it was a sin to eat the forbidden fruit, but did not wish to do evil, and shrank from disobeying the Divine command.

Then this ancient saying has it to be recalled that Eve had given him for a companion whom he should love and protect and "leave to forever." He knew she had brought destruction upon himself by her act. He would be true to her, he would not cherish life for himself, since when she must go from his side, "Then when thou gavest me," he said to the woman that gave me, "the woman that gave me," he said to the woman that gave me, "the woman that gave me," he said to the woman that gave me, Lorraine had leased studio space in the Zinn plant, which Summerland had recommended as the most modern and completely equipped on the coast. For this the company was paying a weekly rental of fifteen hundred dollars. An expensive executive and technical staff, lacking only a director, was kicking heels on full pay. A story had been selected, old novel by a moderately popular author to which Zinn had in 1914 purchased all motion-picture rights outright for five hundred dollars and which he was now willing to part with for ten thousand as a special courtesy because he had taken such a mad fancy to Lorraine.

A scenario writer, warranted by Zinn "the best in the business," had received five thousand for casting the story into continuity form, the labor of one whole week, and retired rejoicing to his hundred-and-fifty-a-week job in the Zinn scenario department.

A reading of his pastard brainchild had persuaded Lucinda that continuity writing must be the mystery its adepts alleged; in fact, she couldn't understand the greater part of it, and what she did understand somewhat preyed upon her mind.

But Lorraine seemed satisfied. Summerland solved her misgivings with the assurance that Potter Monahan simply couldn't write a poor continuity, and both agreed that Parry Nolan would know what to do to make it right when he got down to work on it.

Incidentally, he did: Nolan read it through, thoughtfully shied the manuscript out of a window, and dictated a continuity all his own, of which nobody but himself could make head or tail, and which at times in the course of its production seemed to puzzle even its perpetrator.

In the meantime Lucinda had moved to the Hollywood Hotel, the Lentaines to a furnished bungalow nearby, where they vainly pressed her to join them. She thought it transitory nature . . .

The worst of it was, she was glad.

"Well, Linda!"

She put away her pensiveness, smiling to see Summerland bending forward in his chair, anxiously searching her face for a clue to her mind but with the anxiety of impatience more than the anxiety of doubt. He wanted to have her in his arms. A pleasant place to be, perhaps; but she wasn't ready yet, she was not yet sure . . .

"Well, my friend!" she said in amused indulgence—"so it seems you amuse me."

"How long have you known it?"

"Quite as long as you have loved me."

"And you?"

"I don't know yet."

He ventured too confidently: "I don't want to hurry you—"

"You couldn't, Lynn. And—you won't be wise if you count on me."

"I'm going to count on you—unless you want me to think you're merely amusing yourself."

"But you don't think that. So be patient."

"I'm not at all sure patience and love are even related..."

"Then I'm afraid the only kind of love you know is not the kind that lasts."

Lucinda was silent for want of a conscience that would sanction an indecent rejoinder.

"But this is, after all, Hollywood."

"No excuse for doing as the Hollywoodheads do."

"Then, I take it, you think it might be more discreet of me to stop going about with you alone."

"Lynn, I'm afraid you're artful. Yes—and much too experienced!"

of American business men. He went to a commercial school in Coblenz, got some practical work in a coal mines and completed his education at a mining academy in Essen.

At 19 he entered the Stinnes firm and at 23, enlisting his grandfather, he struck out for himself. Charitably he called his firm "Hugo Stinnes Incorporated." His capital was $60,000 marks. Even 20 years ago that wasn't a large sum in the Tuh, but it sufficed.

Stinnes went forward from success to success. He did not excite the public imagination, nor stir it to fear, anger or admiration. He was just one of many German business men who were piling up their coin. He lived plainly and simply in his native Mülheim. His office was and still is an old house with a desk and a few chairs. He gave no publicity rules to his office in Berlin.

The war both gave Stinnes the opportunities and made him. What Stinnes had in his hands the things a war-making nation now has. Monarchy "creeped" before the war, Stinnes' existence. He was often called to Berlin for consultation. He became a valued advisor on industrial mobilization of German resources. And what is remarkable against him most bitterly today in Germany, especially in radical circles, is the advanced policies that have come out of a blooming career.

"They say he urged the submarine cated the dismantling of Belgian mills. And finally they say he advocated the wholesale deportation of Belgian men and women who were carried into Germany to replace the labor Germany lost when she sent her last sons to the war.

Since the armistice Stinnes has played an even larger part in Germany's life. He has brought about combination after combination in big business—in which one commonly horizontal trust—in which one commonly vertical and dealt with—and vertical trusts in which, for instance, iron ore is taken and put through every process from pig iron up to and including a thousand articles, manufactured of steel or of cast iron.

Stinnes' name appears in the editorials and news columns of the German papers and is heard on the lips of the country's leaders as much as that of the czar's kaiser in former days.

Indeed he has accomplished something no Hohenzollern ever achieved. He has added a new word to the dictionary. When an editor writes that a business had been "Stinnesfert," everybody knows it means the business has been gobbed up by one of Stinnes' trusts. He has been called names such as "vampire of the proletariat" and "immoral opportunist."

No body knows what his real ambitions are. Some time ago a German labor leader, after a heated conference with him, quietly added: "Why don't you go so hard on the pile up of the money?" Stinnes' answer was: "For children." There are six of them at the top, all in trust with him. Stinnes has never revealed his real ambitions. When he speaks in the Reichstag, where he is one of the representatives of the German People's party, with a highly ready voice which is impressive. And his utterances mainly about business matters, was especially interested to find how he got along with the nearly 100 men who work for Stinnes or enterprises in which he is a shareholder.

He himself is quoted in a labor paper as saying: "When we want undertake a big business proposition we ask two questions first of all, just who is the man will direct it? and where are the thorough workers? If one can't find both, one the thing alone. We must have division of work in the future. We must leave to the undertaker the enterprise what is his—then we must strive to see the workers get the greatest possible benefit out of the enterprise, same people call him a master of many. They tell you that he leads good wages. They say he is building homes and workers' nests and was one of the first to make workers' committees which to rectify their grievances to the best of his ability.

We want fair pay for his workers, but we also want fair play for the people of Germany." His next story Broader tells how he built up his huge empire.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 20.—(By The Associated Press)—The Southern Baptist Convention tonight voted in favor of establishing a large hospital in New Orleans and instructed its home mission board to proceed to finance and build the hospital under provision that actual work may not be started for two years, unless the board's finances justify beginning before then.

The convention voted to extend from May 1, 1924, to December 1, 1924, the closing of the $75,000,000 five year campaign. The same members of the conservation commission in charge of the campaign were retained with the addition of O. E. Bryan, of Atlanta, and J. C. Owen of Fulton, Missouri.

Promises for the establishment of the proposed Baptist hospital in New Orleans were made by a number of speakers tonight.

CERTIFICATE FOR DECREASE OF THE CAPITAL STOCK OF THE Piedmont Hotel Corporation.

The Piedmont Hotel Corporation, July created by an order of the State Corporation Commission of the State of Virginia, desiring to decrease its capital stock, executes this certificate as required by law, through its President and under its corporate seal, witnessed by its Secretary, and sets out:

And the said Board of Directors thereupon ordered a meeting of the stockholders to be called for the 12th day of January, 1922 according to law, to take action upon the foregoing proposed decrease of the capital stock of the Corporation.

(2) That on the 12th day of January, 1922, there was held at the office of the Corporation in the City of Danville, the Corporation, at which meeting of the stockholders of the Corporation were present in person and voting. PRESBYTERIANS RESCIND THEIR FORMER ACTION

GREENVILLE, Tenn., May 20.—The assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterians church in annual session here by adopting today the majority report of its judiciary committee rescinded its former action of making it illegal for members of the board to succeed themselves. The action was taken up recently of memorials from four presbyteries "praying the assembly" to take such action.

The majority report was brought in by the Rev. C. A. Davis, of Memphis, while the minority report, which opposed rescinding the action, was submitted by E. B. McEuen, of Owingsboro, Ky., chairman of the judiciary committee. The vote of the assembly in favor of the majority report was 64 to 26.

The bids of Memphis, McKenzie, Jackson and Nashville for the proposed new university to be located in their communities were explained by representatives of the several bidders today to the assembly, but action was deferred until Monday.

WEALTHY HEIR LOST IN RUSSIA

NEW YORK, May 20.—Simon Jas. Gordon died at 121 Madison avenue on July 2, 1919, leaving an estate valued at $248,019, which was taken in charge by Public Administrator Thos. F. Smith, because, although it was known that he had relatives abroad, his friends did not know what had become of them. An accounting filed yesterday shows that, although the identity of the family has been learned, only one of them, Edith Marie Herdshewitch, a daughter of Warsaw, Poland, has been heard from.

Mrs. Herdshewitch wrote at last accounts her mother, Louise Gordon, was in Petrograd, but she had lost track of her since the beginning of the chaotic conditions in Russia, and did not know whether she was alive or dead.

Her brother, Nikoloff, was in Moscow, and she said she had heard from reliable sources that he had been put to death.

The only other member of the family was her sister Barbara, who was in Tunis, Africa, but she had not heard from her in a long time.

Gordon's estate consisted of $1,500 in cash and the rest was in securities. He had $35,000 in Liberty bonds and $72,000 in stock of the Cyril Trading and Construction Company. The Public administrator reported that claims of more than $50,000 had been made against the estate, of which the largest were made by the Irving National Bank for a loan to purchase Liberty bonds and by a Stock Exchange firm through which he traded. The depreciation of many of the securities and the expenses of administration leaves only $35,000 for the heirs, according to the accounting.

If Mrs. Gordon Gordon can be found she will get a third and the three children will divide the other two-thirds. If the others cannot be found the daughter, Mrs. Herdshewitch, will get the entire estate.

The largest single sum in the world is twice that of the size of my house during the war.

The scarcity of small change in Italy has reduced the population to using postage stamps instead.

CASH DOESN'T COUNT FOR THIS COUNT AND COUNTESS

COUNT AND COUNTESS ZICHY

BY ALEXANDER HERMAN
NEW YORK, May 22.—"We're the wealthiest persons in the world—for we have each other!"

This is the defy of the Count and Countess Zichy to deputy sheriffs who are trying to collect from the count a judgment for several hundred dollars return against him as the result of an automobile accident.

Zichy said in judgement would have been soft for George Wilson, son of the late millionaire brewer, whom the countess liked on her wedding day to marry the count. But between a rich man whom she merely liked real well, and a count, harassed by a judgment for a few hundred dollars, whom she loved with all her heart, the countess—

"Well, only love matters," says she.

Anyhow, the count could clean up the judgment in 30 seconds if he had what's coming to him from his family's Hungarian estates. So there!

Their Romance

The countess was Charlotte Gardner Demarest, who divided her time between the younger sets of New York, London and Paris.

"All my life I dreamed about a real romance with a husband as real and chivalrous as knights or old as she said. "But knighthood seemed to have gone to seed."

"I met the count after he came to America in 1920. He had been imprisoned for several years in Russian war camps. I wasn't much thrilled—at first. But he danced divinely and played tennis like a champion, and I was just beginning to think a bit of him when I had to sail abroad."

The count takes up the story.

"I am of the Hungarian nobility, but I was reared in England. I was captured by the Russians during the war. After coming to America I turned scenario and short story writer, insurance agent and automobile salesman."

By the way he sold autos under the name of Edward Wright; but after 6 p.m. he was Count Zichy.

It was after Miss Demarest's return from abroad that he read of her coming marriage in the paper. He decided to call on her.

"The moment he entered the room," said the countess, with excitement, "I knew I could never be happy as the wife of another. And he couldn't bear the thought of my becoming another man's bride. So—so we got married!"

Then the man who held the old judgment read of the romance, and started proceedings to collect.

Did the count come across? Not immediately.

"What do we care?" says the countess. "If some horrid sheriff is trying to collect some money for an old auto accident? What's money, when you're in love?"
